

I have made pediatric transplants a large part of my practice over my career and have been able to help hundreds of kids. While in Atlanta, I transplanted both the youngest and smallest children in the world.

Currently, I am evaluating which hospital in Denver to partner with so I can resume my pediatric liver work.